

A Letter From Dr. Russ

As many of you already know, I turned over ownership of TLVC to Dr. Jennifer Stephani and Ammber King in October of 2017. I had already spent many months contemplating the future with my wife and family when the opportunity to sell the practice presented itself, and I felt like it was truly an answer to our prayers.

Though I love being a Veterinarian, and I am very proud of the practice I built and the years I spent serving my patients and clients, I felt the time had come to begin to cut back. I fully intended to stay on as an associate Veterinarian for the foreseeable future, but as time has passed over the last year, I have begun to realize that my plans have shifted.

After even more prayers and discussions with my family, I have decided to retire earlier than originally planned, and I will be officially hanging up my stethoscope at the end of this June.

Dr. Jen and Ammber have given me the opportunity to start an exciting new chapter of my life, and I am comforted knowing I am leaving my legacy in very capable hands.

I am so thankful to have been able to care for so many wonderful clients and patients over the years, and I have no doubt that Dr. Jen and Dr. Chantal will continue to provide exceptional care to all of TLVC's clients moving forward.
